

PIS8220 Session 4

Background

Muithirandu would like to investigate the homeless individuals in Nairobi to get a better understanding of their need for mental health services.

Tasks

1. Which mixed-methods research design is most appropriate for this study? Why?
2. State the specific quantitative and qualitative research questions/hypotheses for your study.
3. Discuss the quantitative and qualitative methods you are using.
4. Discuss your sampling techniques for both the quantitative and qualitative elements and justify your selection. Discuss what you are measuring and how you are measuring it. There should be a fit between the research question, conceptualization, and measurement.
5. Variables and social mechanisms:
 - a. Describe the variables you are using (independent and dependent)
 - b. Discuss the extent to which you can assess causality
 - c. Explain the contexts, processes and other meanings you will explore
 - d. For the quantitative portion of the study discuss the mediators that you will assess
6. Data issues
 - a. Discuss potential issues with and the trustworthiness of your data.
 - b. Discuss the strategies you will use to ensure your data are “accurate” or credible, and the techniques you will use to ensure that they are consistent.
7. Discuss the ethical issues your study raises and how you will address them
8. Discuss the implications of your study for future research.
